You're never a bother :) And yes, I'm the right guy. Dave Hoy if I'm not available

The Record of Survey that I sent you at the start of this thread (May a year ago) is for 50 acres. See attachment. Yes, I will get you a KMZ file later today.

Dave,
The Jamestown Tribe has shown interest in utilizing this DNR lease in Dungeness Bay. Is there any possible way that you could map this on google earth so I can share it's exact location with Sylvia/Kim/Kevin? You sent me a quick map with an approximate location previously, but it was only for a 30+ acre area - the lease is for 50 acres.

Please let me know if I should be bothering someone else.

Thanks,

Jennifer

Just ran across this survey as I was researching the Wood Tract. Kevin had mentioned this to me: that the tribe had an aquatic lease on "our" tidelands. This is just a survey, and doesn't mean that the lease was granted, but thought I' bring it up.

By my understanding, we have complete control of all of the tidelands fronting on the spit, although we consider it less than fee title. I'm not sure I understand how DNR could issue a lease.
